U.S. Seeking Co-operation from Canada On Radar

His arrival here for a one-day visit that still more radars are needed.

Reaction of Defence Minister Peakes was favorable. He told reporters after his meeting with Mr. McElroy: "We decided it would be desirable to increase the facilities of the warning system by introduction of new and more powerful radars and the addition of more gap - filler radars than originally contemplated."

This was subject, however, to cabinet approval. No estimate of costs or construction dates were given.

JOINT FINANCING

The Pinetree chain and the new radars are financed jointly by Canada and the U.S., with this country paying one-third of the cost.

Mr. McElroy made it clear that the U.S. is not urging Canada to accept more Bomarc anti-aircraft missile bases in Canada beyond the two already planned for North Bay, Ont., and Mont Laurier, Que.

He briefed Mr. Peakes on the planned location of the 16 American Bomarc stations—mainly in the northern U.S.

Mr. McElroy told reporters, Bomarc Squadrons are placed so engagement of any bombers would take place over the "wooded areas" of Canada.

FIRST LINE OF DEFENCE

The defence secretary stressed, however, that interceptors and not missiles are the first line of defence against manned bombers.

There would be a gradual deployment of U.S. fighter bases northward — within the U.S. and not in Canada. In "time of tension" American interceptor squadrons could move in to Canada.

Mr. McElroy said it is "distinctly possible" that the Canadian government might want to establish offensive intercontinental ballistic missile bases in Canada. This was up to Canada and the U.S. was not proposing American ICBM bases in this country.

The defence secretary suggested it might be possible eventually for Canada to remain U.S. nuclear warheads under Canadian control.

Later, the Canadian defence department issued a brief summary of the discussions. It said: "Among matters discussed was the question of improving present arrangements and equipment for defence of the North American continent."

"It was confirmed that there is no question of the redeployment of the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile defence and associated equipment from its currently planned location, nor is there any question of the deployment of inter-continental ballistic missiles on Canadian territory."

Arrests Stem Major Plot Against Castro

Military Screen In Cuba

By HAROLD K. MILKS

HAVANA (AP) — New arrests were reported in the Cuban countryside Tuesday in a drive against the first major conspiracy threatening Fidel Castro's regime.

It was understood that government troops skirmished with counter-revolutionary forces in central Las Villas province, but a communications blackout prevented confirmation.

However, a device filtering through the military blizzard told of numerous arrests in two Las Villas cities, Santa Clara and Cienfuegos.

Government officials declared Monday night that the plot—rumored to have called for an armed uprising today—had been crushed.

BIG ROUNDUP

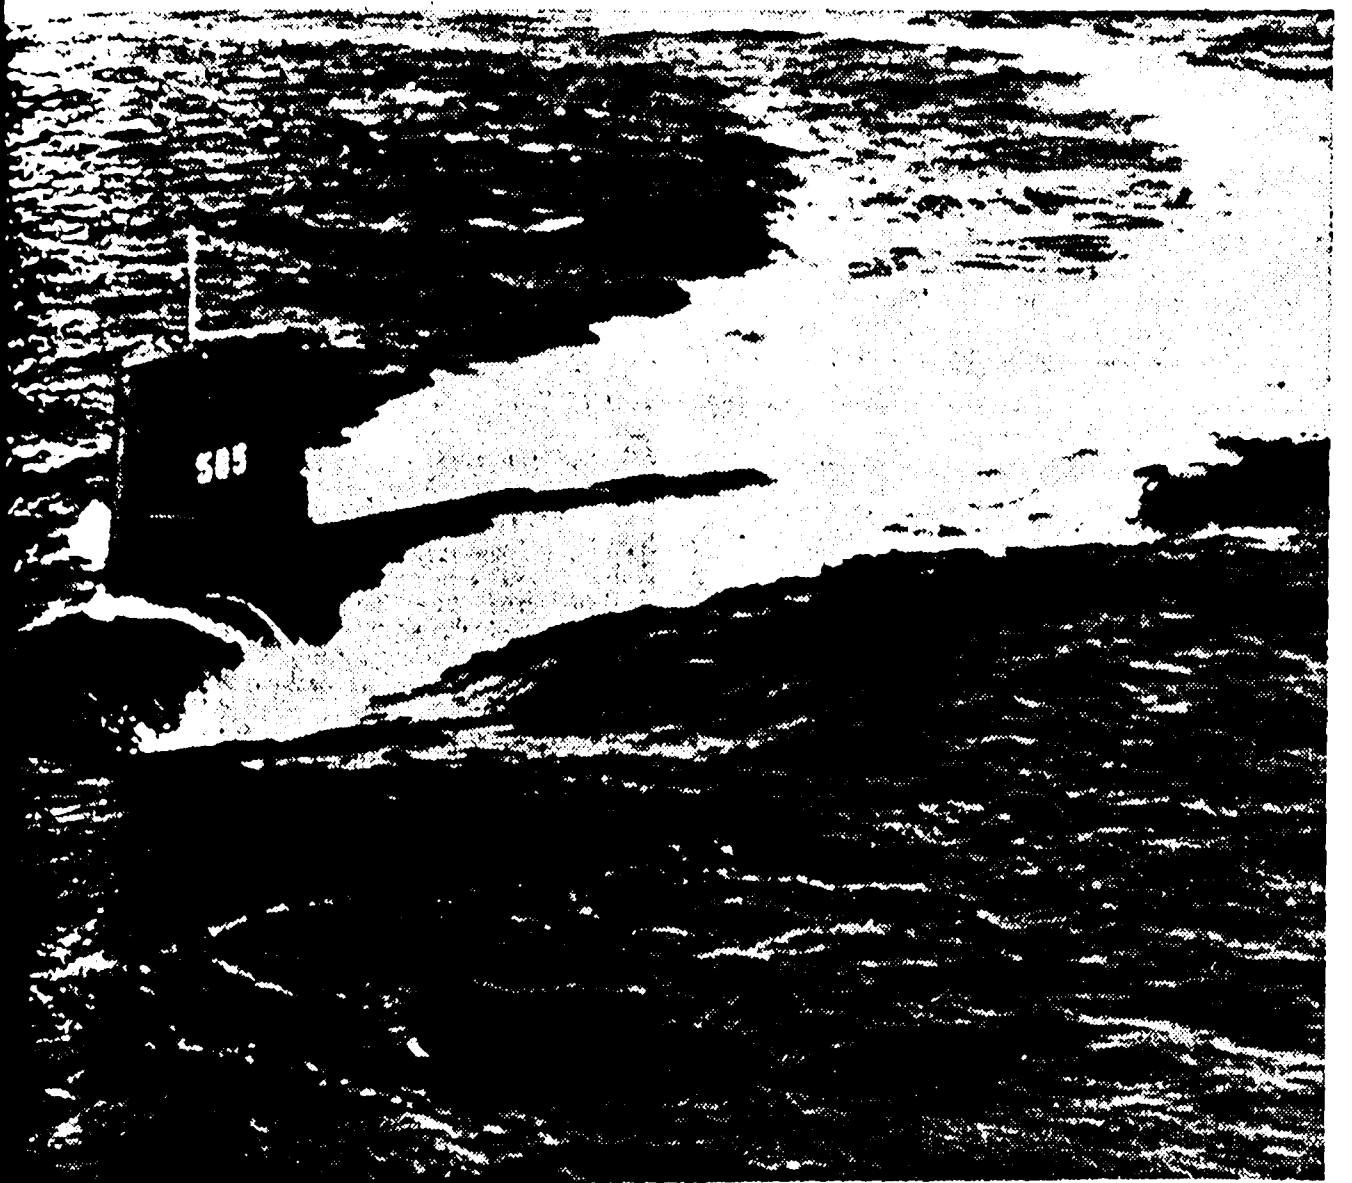

Unofficial sources said as many as 1,500 persons were rounded up and interned at military camps for questioning. They expressed belief most will be freed after police sort them out.

Many, however, must do a lot of talking.

One is ex-senator Arturo Hernandez Tellecheche, named by the newspaper La Calle as the man chosen by the conspirators to replace President Osvaldo Dorticos if their plot succeeded. He is a follower of Carlos Prío Socarras, the former Cuban president ousted by Fulgencio Batista in 1952.

Castro himself was reported by Jay Mallin, Havana correspondent of the Miami Daily News, to have played a dramatic personal role in smashing the plot. According to this account:

Top leaders of the counter-revolutionary movement, including Hernandez Tellecheche, were in session in a house near Havana when the bearded premier stalked in.

Shaggy Dog Story

CHICAGO (AP)—An Alaska woman wriggled inside a muddy sewer pipe for a happy but messy reunion with her lost dog Monday, ending three days of search for the little pooch.

Mrs. Dorothy Hudson, 35, of Anchorage, had interrupted her vacation in Miami, Fla., last Friday and flew to Chicago when she learned her dog, en route to her in another plane had escaped from a crate at the airport here.

She tramped through fields near the airport all weekend in search of the 11-year-old dog, named Wahine. Newspapers and animal welfare league officials called on the public to watch for the cocker spaniel.

Monday Bruno Stahlbusch, 14, spotted Wahine peeping from a sewer pipe used as a culvert. Mrs. Hudson was notified.

One end of the pipe was blocked off. At the other end, neighborhood children formed a V-shaped cordon and Mrs. Hudson went inside after her pet.

Emerging, the muddy dog was licking Mrs. Hudson's muddy face. Then Mrs. Hudson spotted the boy who found the dog and gave him $50.

Stock Market Steady After Taking Dive

NEW YORK (AP) — A brisk rally in electronics Tuesday helped the New York stock market right itself after the steep drop Monday.

Most steels, motors, rails and chemicals joined the advance that generally did not get back half of Monday's losses. Final prices were around the day's highs.

Key issues gained a few cents to about $2 but some of the missile - electronic shares jumped around $6.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, which dropped $4.10 Monday in its steepest loss since last November, came back $1.50 and closed at $230.70.

Based on this average, an estimated $2,000,000,000 was added to the market value of all stocks on the New York Stock Exchange. The loss Monday totalled $5,400,000,000.

Brokers said the rally represented a gradual rebound after the shakeout of the last few sessions. Some buying came from investors who felt prices had reached an attractive level, they said.

The Dow Jones industrial average gained 4.28 at 638.07 compared with its loss of 14.78 Monday. There were 700 stocks recording advances while 288 declined. Volume totalled 2,950,000 shares compared with 4,190,000 Monday.

Movie Is Nauseating Say Patrons

VANCOUVER (CP)—An estimated 100 patrons walked out Monday on a Czechoslovakia cartoon The Creation of the World, at the Vancouver International Film Festival.

Reporters heard such comments as "blasphemous," "boring" and "a nauseating waste of film" from departing customers. Another 1,100 persons stayed on through the full cartoon.

Cartoonist Jean Effel depicted God as a bald-headed, white-whiskered old man stumbling through the world's first six days with frustrating setbacks.

"Primitive... utter nonsense... repulsive clap-trap," said the fans who walked out.

Satirical scenes included those showing God hatching little boy angels from large speckled eggs. One red egg tumbled through a cloud to crack open below, and the fallen angel, Lucifer, popped out with a snakey red tail and pointed horns.

The Effel's God shot the stars into space with a trigger-action bazooka. To get light in the universe, he flicked a lighter—half a dozen times—before getting flames.

Author George Tabori, one of the film festival judges, called the feature "a charming, amusing movie."

Five Men Steer Energy Policies

By JOHN LEBLANC

Canadian Press Staff writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Five men with experience ranging from coast to coast were named Tuesday to steer Canada's energy policies.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's office disclosing the makeup of newly created National Energy Board, said it will be headed by Ian N. McKinnon, 52, chairman of the Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board.

The Calgary civil servant, who will be on a two-year leave of absence from the Alberta government for the initial phase of the board's work at a statutory $20,000 salary, will be joined on the agency by:

Vice-Chairman Robert D. Howland of Halifax and Ottawa, an economist, former Nova Scotia deputy trade minister and economic adviser to the Borden royal commission on energy which led to the establishment of the board. His salary will be $18,000.

OTHER MEMBERS

Julius A. Archambault, Montreal, an engineer, president of Canit Construction Company and wartime associate transit controller for Canada.

H. Lee Briggs Victoria, an electrical engineer who was in November as general manager of the British Columbia Power Commission after public criticism of B.C. government power financing policies.

Douglas M. Fraser, Ottawa, an economist and director of the energy studies branch of the federal trade department, in which position he helped prepare the energy board legislation for the last session of Parliament.

The three members apart from the chairman and vice-chairman will receive $16,000 a year.

All appointments except those of Mr. McKinnon are for seven years. Vice-Chairman Howland had been reported in earlier speculation as a strong prospect for the top job, and it appeared likely he might step into the chairman's shoes on Mr. McKinnon's return to his Alberta position.

Africa Lunatic World Says Prof.

Professor... tried to show what was bound to happen.

The professor paints a gloomy picture of South Africa under the government of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd.

He is certain South Africa has reached a point of no return.

"The state is embarked on a crazy course which I am certain is leading to destruction. But I am convinced too that when this regime is overthrown it will be succeeded by one equally foreign to me."

African nationalism has created black nationalism, and thus, he warned, the future lies with the extremists.

Red Peddle Pushers Move Arms and Ammo

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Communist battalions are using bicycles to move arms and supplies into Sam Neua province from the direction of North Viet Nam, a Laotian official said Tuesday.

Sisouk Na Champassak, secretary of state for information, said the bike battalions are using jungle paths and generally imitating tactics used by the Communist Vietnamese during the Indochinese war against the French.

He said the contingents are composed of rebellious former members of the Communist Pathet Lao movement and cadres trained in Hanoi, capital of the Communist state of North Viet Nam.

Laotian women and children have been conscripted to help the operation, Sisouk added.

The Laotian government says 30 per cent of the population in Sam Neua province is inclined to communism because of indoctrination when Pathet Lao exercised control over the northern border province. This control ended two years ago, whereas the rest of Laos was freed of Communist control by the 1954 Geneva agreements ending the French-Vietnamese fighting.

SEEK RED AGENTS

The army is scouring the province for a fifth column and has apprehended 100 operatives so far. An additional 90 insurgents have been killed and nine captured, Laotian planes have spotted red concentrations around five more outposts, Sisouk said, but the army has not made contact with the insurgents in the last 48 hours.

The situation remains tense and is kept inflamed by propaganda broadcasts from Radio Hanoi, the secretary said.

French Without Tears!

LONDON (CP)—Lieut. Jean Lajeunesse of Montreal goes to Balmoral Castle today to begin a two-week assignment of brushing up Prince Charles' French.

The result, says a Buckingham Palace spokesman, will probably be a French-Canadian accent for the prince.

The 27-year-old officer of the Royal 22nd Regiment is expected to spend most of his working days with his 11-year-old pupil, talking only in French. "I should imagine it is a most certain Prince Charles will acquire a Canadian accent," says the spokesman.

He also suggests that the prince will pick up a few new French words, French-speaking Canadians use a few 17th- and 18th-century words that are not used in France, he says.

Earlier the lieutenant referred to his job as "a great honor for the regiment."

HEAVY SHIP STUCK

MONTREAL (CP)—Tugs Tuesday tried to free the large Great Lakes freighter Thunder Bay stuck on a mud bank at the entrance to Montreal harbor. The 663-foot freighter is loaded to a dead weight of 18,000 tons, with iron ore bound for the Great Lakes from Sept-Isles, Que.

Study Use Of Live Vaccine

By JOHN E. BIRD

Canadian Press Staff writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Possible future use in Canada of a live polio virus vaccine is being studied by the federal health department and the Connaught Medical Research Laboratories in Toronto.

The Canadian Press Tuesday that Health Minister Monteth told the new vaccine — taken in the form of a single pill instead of three injections — still is in the test stage in this country.

Until there was positive proof that it would work, there would be no letup in the cross-country campaign to persuade all Canadians, especially those, ranging in age from 20 to 40, to be inoculated with conventional vaccine.

Mr. Monteth said research in Canada, the United States and elsewhere on a live polio vaccine represents another "major advance" in the struggle against the devastating effects of paralytic poliomyelitis.

BETTER PROTECTION?

Tests in the U.S. indicate that one pill of the new vaccine will give protection against all three types of polio virus. The salt treatment includes three spaced injections.

The pill is expected to produce longer immunity, possibly for a lifetime. Salk vaccine is effective for only several years.

News of the study comes at a time when cases of paralytic polio in Canada continue to climb at a rate comparable with 1958.

During the first seven months of this year 137 cases were reported, up from 46 in the corresponding period last year. Deaths in the period totalled 10 as against six last year.

Little Rock Is Still Uneasy On Integration

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Uneasiness settled over Little Rock Tuesday night on the eve of the reopening of its four public high schools to token integration.

Die-hard segregationists still sought desperately for a way out. They have even declared a boycott of main street merchants.

Governor Orval E. Faubus finally spoke up too Tuesday.

"If the Little Rock situation is settled and if the schools are integrated it will be under the compulsion of federal bayonets," he said.

Faubus had been strangely quiet. He had been expected to call a special legislative session. He called none. But segregationists still rallied around him. They planned to gather today to ask him to "do something."

BUTTON DOWN DETAILS

The school board buttoned down the details for integrating six Negroes into two of the early-opening schools under a state pupil placement law, already challenged by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Twice Faubus has stopped integration in Little Rock. In the fall of 1957 he used the National Guard militia temporarily to turn back nine Negroes at Central High School. Last year he closed the schools under a quickly enacted state law recently declared unconstitutional by a federal court.

Lutheran Author Dies

ST. LOUIS (CP)—Arthur William Klinck, author and chairman of the department of historical theology at Concordia Theological Seminary in St. Louis since 1954, died of a heart ailment Sunday night. He was 59.

Dr. Klinck, born in Elmira, Ont., came to the United States in 1918 and became an American citizen in 1937. He was ordained a Lutheran minister in 1925.

ROME (AP)—Pope John left the cool of his summer palace Monday and returned to sweltering Rome to see the church in which he was ordained a priest 55 years ago. He drove into a Rome crowded with foreign tourists and almost abandoned by Romans, pulling out of the city for the annual mid-August holiday.

CHARTER FOR A NEW DEAL FOR NEWFOUNDLAND

MY FELLOW NEWFOUNDLANDERS:

I come before you tonight as the Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party of Newfoundland, humbly proud of the fact that ours is the party that has refused to bend the knee to the Smallwood Government; proud of the fact that our party has refused to be associated, no matter what the disguise, with tyranny, corruption and the mismanagement — tragic mismanagement — of the affairs of the people and province of Newfoundland.

I am proud of the party's candidates — all of them good, loyal Newfoundlanders, representing every element of our land, representing the common, ordinary citizen of this province, with no special plea and no political self-interest but, instead, dedicated only to the common good of all Newfoundlanders.

I point out to you that the Progressive Conservative Party is the only party that can offer itself as an alternate to the Smallwood Government — and the only party that represents a responsible and complete opposition to the Smallwood Government.

And the Progressive Conservative is the only party with a program for all the people of Newfoundland. You have read Mr. Smallwood's platform — not one thing in it but defiance, not one thing in it but the cause of partisan politics.

A POSITIVE PROGRAM

Rather than seeking a selfish mandate to feed the ego of one man, and to defy another, rather than a declaration of war on Ottawa for imagined wrongs, we ask the people of Newfoundland to join us in OUR declaration of war — war against need, against hardship and suffering, against the real economic injustices suffered by so many of our people.

Our policy is dedicated to the true needs of Newfoundland — for we sincerely believe that what Newfoundland needs more than partisan politics and personal bickering is a program for human betterment and social justice, a program dedicated to the lessening of hardship and the broadening of opportunity.

Our position is crystal clear — whether we stand alone or with thousands at our side — whether we are few or many — we take our stand against corruption and greed and waste and tyranny. We take our stand against need and suffering and against the privations of our people. There are people in this province — and I and my colleagues have met them by the hundreds in recent days — people who long to see an end to the Smallwood Government. People who know their interests have been pushed aside, who know their opportunities of the future have been thrust aside, just for the sake of this Pickersgill-Smallwood folly of political expediency.

These twin master-minders of political strategy — combined in the interests of Liberal politics — combined against the real needs of the people of Newfoundland.

If you vote for Mr. Smallwood, you have his word as to what he will do. He and Mr. Pickersgill will embark on a round of chicken dinners all across Canada — a round of speeches and polite applause. And while they do this, my friends, what will be done for the people of Newfoundland?

If you vote Progressive Conservative, you will be voting for a programme that will do something for the people of Newfoundland, let me now read to you that Program — The Progressive Conservative Party's Charter for a new deal for Newfoundland. (See We Pledge).

Now, my friends, compare this programme to the hollow manifesto of Mr. Smallwood's. In that barren, partisan document of his, not one word of hope for the poor and oppressed; not one word or one cent for opportunity, for development, for expansion of public services. All the people of Newfoundland can expect from the Liberal Party and Mr. Smallwood is the thin crust of partisan politics, isolation from Canada, and continued reckless attacks on the Diefenbaker Government.

Look at our program. Every man, woman and child in this land will be better for it. Here is hope for present and future generations. Here is an end to squalid quarrels among ourselves and with Ottawa.

Elect men and a party who want to do something for the common ordinary men and women of Newfoundland — those gallant, hard-working, hard-pressed people who are the salt of the earth and the backbone of our land.

My friends, our program is based on two firm convictions. First, that by cutting out reckless waste, corruption, greed and foolish ventures, the Government of Newfoundland can make your lot a better one. And second, we say that work and wages and better standards of daily life can be ours if we grasp the friendly, outstretched hand of John Diefenbaker — if we work with his Government and not against it.

ABOLISH SALES TAX

Now, in our first pledge to you, we say this. If you elect us to office, we will abolish the sales tax on food, and abolish the sales tax on clothing for your children and on their footwear — shoes and boots and so on. This tax on food is a vicious tax — no other province in Canada, although seven others have a sales tax — has a tax on food — it is wholly unfair and unnecessary.

The same can be said for children's clothing. Think what a blessing this will be for the Newfoundland family. We say we will abolish that tax on these items — it is unjust and unfair to the average Newfoundland family.

My friends, Newfoundland is perhaps the only province in Canada that makes children pay for their school books. Which would you rather do, squander public money on statues and fountains and doomed and useless ventures or provide school books for our children?

We're going to increase Mother's Allowances. The Conservative Government in Ottawa increased Old Age Pensions, Veteran's Pensions and the like — Newfoundland did nothing for the widowed mothers.

We will provide increased allowances for widowed mothers, for mothers deserted by their husbands, for mothers whose husbands are in the Sanatorium, or mental institutions. Misfortune should not be visited on the children.

OUTPORT HOUSING

Next in our great charter for Newfoundland is a program to provide housing loans for those who live in the outports. Now is a problem we believe good Government can help — and it is a problem that exists only in Newfoundland.

land. Anywhere else in Canada the average man can finance a new home through federal housing loans. He can do it here in our major population centers like St. John's and Gander and so on.

But in the outports, housing standards are different, and the money our people can save is much less — but the need is just as great. The Diefenbaker Government has already made special changes in the Housing Legislation for Newfoundland. Now, let us do our part.

If you elect a Conservative Government, we will establish a Newfoundland Outport Housing Authority — providing funds to help people build their homes and improve their lives. We believe that up to 5,000 new homes can be built with this program in Newfoundland in the next five years. This means better lives for many and it means work and wages for many.

Now I want to say something about the lot of the fishermen. I know there are hundreds of fishermen in this province who need just a few dollars to buy a boat or improve their gear. Just a little more money than they have

of the future of Newfoundland; we believe such a step would give greater urgency and make more effective the expansion and development of the vital resources of this great area.

And, my friends, my colleagues and I are determined to give this province clean, honest competent government — raise the standards of political morality based on those historic principles of public responsibility that are the cornerstone of the British Parliamentary system.

The political institutions of Newfoundland are notorious in Canada — the unbridled system of patronage, the favoritism, all the rag-tag and bobtail of a political machine are an intolerable burden on the backs of our people. We are pledged to rid Newfoundland of this wasteful, extravagant, corrupt machine.

COMPLETE TRANS-CANADA

Rising out of such a policy, our program calls for the completion of the Trans-Canada Highway on terms consistent with Newfoundland's needs and present capacity

WE PLEDGE

1. No sales tax on food, children's clothing and footwear.
2. Free school books for every child to grade 12.
3. Increased allowances for widowed mothers, deserted wives and mothers with husbands in institutions.
4. Outport housing authority to make available mortgage loans for Newfoundlanders living outside urban areas.
5. Small loan program for fishermen.
6. Flying medical clinic service.
7. Justice for workingmen — freedom of association — repeal of existing undemocratic legislation.
8. Establish a Provincial Minister and Department for Labrador Development.
9. Clean, honest government and a civil service free of politics and further in cooperation with the Diefenbaker government.
10. Complete the Trans-Canada Highway on terms consistent with Newfoundland's needs and present capacity to pay.
11. Complete the agreement with the Diefenbaker government for a $9,500,000 electrification program.
12. Establish a free port of Newfoundland's southwest coast.
13. Embark on a vigorous roads to resources programme.
14. Negotiate under bill C-72 a new and better deal in Confederation for the Province of Newfoundland.

and not enough money to qualify for a federal loan. Well, again, the problems of Newfoundland are different than the rest of Canada. The Government of Newfoundland must have a policy to help make up this little difference that will make such a big difference to the average fisherman.

I believe this can be done. If you want it done then support your Conservative candidate. We're not going to make men rich or build great fleets — we are going to help the common, ordinary fishermen whose lot is hard enough, heaven knows. . . . That's our policy — that is the spirit of our charter.

JUSTICE FOR LABOUR

Now, my friends, let me say something about our stand on labour.

We believe not only in the rights of labour. We believe not only in the rights of management. But we believe, about all, in simple justice. We have given this matter long and careful thought. I say to you that as Newfoundlanders we cannot pit one class against another. We must banish this monstrous and growing hatred among us. The Conservative Party believes that men of good-will can solve our problems in peace. I say to you in all sincerity, let us repeal this legislation and begin again with goodwill and a common desire for understanding. I suggest to you, what ever your feelings in the past, that we must not have year after year, class war and strife in Newfoundland. Our economy cannot stand it.

Mr. Smallwood can say what he likes — he has called me nearly every name his tongue can pronounce — but our Party stands before you today with a labour policy based on the rule of law, common sense and simple justice. We believe that is what every Newfoundlanders needs and wants.

We are pledged to create a flying medical clinic service for our people in the outports and in the isolated areas of this province. Because of Newfoundland's unique and special needs, the present federal hospital program does not give Newfoundland its fair share of health services. We believe Ottawa would cooperate in this and, further, we believe that a planned system of flying clinics and doctors' care services would do a great deal to improve the standards of health of our fellow Newfoundlanders in distant areas.

Naturally, we will continue to expand hospital beds and hospital facilities. But beyond this, there remains much that can be done in outpatient care, diagnosis and preventive treatment by expanding and increasing medical services for the outports.

We give the people of Newfoundland our pledge to establish a department under a Minister of the Crown for the affairs of Labrador. For here is the fortune and much to pay. Had the terms of Newfoundland's entry into Confederation been less harsh — had Mr. Smallwood's Liberal friends at Ottawa been prepared to look upon Newfoundland as a first-class asset to Canada rather than a bargain-basement purchase — then this vital highway might have been started then and completed today, built and paid for entirely by federal funds. When Mr. Smallwood signed the Trans-Canada Highway agreement, he signed a useless piece of paper — under that agreement, the people of this province are expected to pay for one-half of the cost of that road. That's what I call a Liberal bargain — they say to the neediest province in Canada, and the newest — you put up thirty million dollars and we'll do the rest. They might as well have offered us the moon, provided we could get it down out of the sky.

My friends, may I say that I have talked with the Prime Minister, Mr. Diefenbaker, about the Trans-Canada Highway and the impossible position Newfoundland is in under the present contract. And I have spoken with other ministers of the Diefenbaker Government. I believe that the Diefenbaker Government is prepared to renegotiate that useless agreement; indeed, I believe the Diefenbaker Government is prepared to give sympathetic consideration to the submission that the highway be completed entirely by the federal government.

And what a blessing that would be for Newfoundland! Our program calls for greater speed and urgency in the matter of electrification. Thousands of our people still live without the boon of electricity. Again, the Diefenbaker Government stands ready to make an enormous contribution — if only men of good will with the interests of our people at heart will act upon it.

On May 25th, in the House of Commons at Ottawa, the Conservative Member for St. John's East, Mr. James McGrath, asked Prime Minister Diefenbaker this question:

"Can the Prime Minister tell the house if it is true that the government of Canada has offered to make available to the province of Newfoundland, under the Atlantic Provinces Power Development Act, more than $9 million in order to make possible a 350,000 horse-power hydro development at Bay d'Espoir on the southeast coast of Newfoundland?"

And the Prime Minister replied, saying this, and I quote: "On Friday last I sent a telegram and a confirming letter to the premier of Newfoundland, informing him that this government is prepared to enter into agreement with his province to make possible the construction of a proposed power transmission line, in accordance with the Atlantic Provinces Power Development Act. . . . The transmission line in question would be in accordance with the development of a 350,000 horse-power hydro development project at Bay d'Espoir by the Bay d'Espoir Hydro-Electric Corporation. . . . I might add that if the province of Newfoundland wishes to enter into such an agreement, the Premier will let me know at an early date.

My friends, the Ottawa offer still stands. And as we in Newfoundland know, the Smallwood Government remains sulking in its tent — prepared to delay and to injure. Is there not some indication here that Mr. Smallwood's wounds, of which he complains every night in vision and in the streets is this not some indication that his wounds are self-inflicted? Why has he not responded to this offer by the Diefenbaker Government? However, my friends, when he must pretend he is an injured party.

Our platform calls for a free port on the southwest coast of Newfoundland. We believe the Federal Government prepared to give this serious consideration. We believe strategic location in Canada dictates such a policy. This is a claim to be pressed by a united people — on matters such as this that we ask your support.

MORE PAVED ROADS

My friends, nowhere in this land can you find an example of neglect and waste and inaction than in the road program. There are Smallwood roads that can't put a wheel barrow over, much less a car. The roads that were built up to paving standards left to fall to rack and ruin. Many of our homes are with dust, and the people in them, because of neglect. If promises were pavement, we would all be on concrete. But promises have been broken. We have gotten in the past and they will be again. The gift of activity now — a road machine here and there — parties crawling all over the land. The road machine don't party — but the people of this province, who little this means so far as roads are concerned.

Our program calls for a continuing road program — provincial government and a roads to resources program in cooperation with the Federal government. Such a program involves a formula based on our capacity to pay. We cannot be helped by imposing on us the same formula as applied to Ontario and Quebec. But we are not a Federal government, thank heaven, who are free to develop the resources of Canada and who are free to allow the poorer provinces to exploit their resources.

No province in Canada has more roads than Newfoundland. If we had a road machine here and there, we would have a great deal of work in a great many roads. Two governments working as a team to improve road possibilities.

Finally, our party stands for a new deal — a new deal — for Newfoundland under Bill C-72. A new deal — new hopes for Newfoundland — it offers a better deal, better terms, more realistic measures, a new deal between the governments at St. John's and Ottawa. This is what the Diefenbaker Government has offered — this is what sensible, reasonable people want. Mr. Smallwood has said before and I say again, what Mr. Smallwood has said before is not an old deal — but a new deal, a better one.

There remain two other parts of our program that shall release at a later date. But for the time being, I suggest to you that the Conservative Party is the only party with a responsible program for Newfoundland.

In this program, I have outlined to you a program that touches the lives of every man, woman and child in this province. Some of the things we propose to do, done by a Provincial Conservative Government, can be done with a provincial government, but some cannot. We propose to do them with the Diefenbaker Government in partnership and harmony with the Diefenbaker Government in Ottawa.

THE ONLY ALTERNATIVE

Someone said to me the other day that he didn't know which party was which in this election and I suggested to him that he might want to look at the program. Well, let me just take a moment to comment on that.

There are two political parties in this province — and there are two groups. One group is the Liberal Party — and the other is the Progressive Conservative Party. Mr. Smallwood's hand-picked opposition is the Liberal Party. He agrees with them and they agree with him. He is running any candidates in the few seats that are contested. Since they think alike, they agree on everything. A vote for them is a vote for Smallwood.

The second group represents a part of the Liberal Party in Newfoundland. I have only to say that they are neither of these groups as our opposition. Some of them are former colleagues of mine. I maintain the respect and friendship although I regard the course they have chosen. But I say this and I will stand by it: the friends of mine and they knew it.

My friends, the Conservative Party is the only alternative to the present government of Newfoundland. We are opposed to the Smallwood Government — the Smallwood doctrine of isolation, and to the Smallwood doctrine of politics.

I believe there are in Newfoundland great people who can think clearly and think for the people. People who realize that ruthless party politics is not the way to take our stand on the needs and wishes of the men and women and children of this land.

However you judge us on August 20th I cannot say this I know: History will not judge us harshly, for this I know: History will know that we are the only party that will prove to all that which we know to be true: that Newfoundland's place is firmly and forever in the Canadian nation and that place is secure for we are among the want for all Canadians that they live in dignity and freedom with a proper measure of opportunity and the life's blessings.

had a representative in the House of Assembly, there would have been no need to form the Newfoundland Democratic Party," Mr. Finn said.

"But we believe that both the Liberals and PC's represent big business. Their ideology is not too different and this fact was demonstrated last Spring."

He maintained that Premier Smallwood is "trying to conjure up a non-existent outside enemy, to exploit the distrust which many Newfoundlanders feel for outsiders."

Mr. Finn told the News that the NDP had hoped to field 25 candidates, but had to be content with 10, owing to limited time and funds. "Nineteen is the mathematical minimum with which to form a government," he pointed out.

Mr. Finn said his party feels very strongly that the fisheries have been "flagrantly neglected," and need to be modernized and mechanized in order to compete with foreign dragners.

RECORD SHOCK
NEW YORK (AP) — A slight earthquake 1.450 miles from here, probably in the West Indies, was recorded early Tuesday on the Fordham University seismograph.

"If we can build up another molehill like that in the next few years," Mr. Smallwood added, "then public services will be approaching the standard of those of Nova Scotia."

Mr. Smallwood said there was a molehill in the state of Nova Scotia, but that the Newfoundland Government had no molehill.

"We could have had more candidates if we'd been willing to buy them," Mr. Finn said. "There were plenty of candidates for sale, but we weren't willing to take them. The candidates we have are all sincere and honest people, people, who, in many cases, are paying their own election expenses."

thirteen year old Douglas Squires of 13 Duckworth Street, was hit and knocked down near his home yesterday by a car driven by Pat Casey, 237 Le Marchant Road. The boy was conveyed to the General Hospital and detained for X-rays. It is believed that he suffered a broken arm.

A resident of Bartle's Hill reported to city police that several children threw firecrackers in his hallway on Monday night. The firecrackers caught fire to woodwork and would have caused a major fire if the resident had not extinguished it in time.

City police are receiving many reports of windows being broken by BB shot and of gardens trampled on and fences broken down.

City police reported six arrests made late yesterday and over night. Three men were given in charge for being drunk and disorderly in the home and three ordinary drunks were arrested. The remaining four were lefovers from the previous day.

Many city motorists who have driven over the Trans-Canada Highway from St. John's to Port au Basques and return, say the highway is in a deplorable condition. Certain sections are pitted with large potholes which cause untold damage to the vehicles. Some drivers report pitted windshields from flying stones and also broken tail pipes from the same obstruction.

Mr. Duffy said Mr. Greene's statement that the U.N.P. is united with Premier Smallwood's Liberal government in his words was to accuse Jim Higgins, John O'Dea, Harvey Cole, myself and the other members of our party of lending ourselves to making a mockery of the House of Assembly.

"The St. John's Centre incumbent," said Mr. Greene, has been a member of the PC party for only a few days. "My friends and I," he continued, "were in it for ten years."

"I am prepared," Mr. Duffy concluded, "to make a statement that Frank Fogwill, Rex Renouf, and Les Marshall, the President of the PC's, will never in the course of this campaign even hint that we are capable of the charge that Mr. Greene has made about us."

A bigger and better prize list has been planned for the third annual Agricultural and Homecrafts Exhibition to be held in St. John's in October.

Leo Earle, Secretary of the Exhibition Committee, says this year's prize list is valued at $14,000, an increase of $2,000 over last year.

Mr. Earle said particular emphasis has been laid this year on expansion of the prize list for the homecrafts section. Three awards will be given in each division in the homecrafts section this year. Last year only first and second place prizes were awarded.

The Exhibition Committee is hopeful of a larger attendance this year. Last year it drew a crowd of 41,000 visitors. The Exhibition which will be held at St. John's Memorial Stadium will open on October 2nd and conclude on October 10th.

Whitfield Bannister, candidate in Fogo, had a meeting at Change Islands and Shoal Bay on Monday and he was at Horwood last night and tonight will campaign in Gander Bay.

Otto Byrne, the candidate in Ferryland and Tom Howley, the candidate in St. Mary's, are both campaigning extensively in their districts.

The five St. John's candidates of the Progressive Conservative party plan to conclude their campaign next Monday night with a rally of supporters in the C.L.B. Armoury.

All five of the candidates will speak at the rally. Malcolm Hollett, leader of the party in Newfoundland, will be the key speaker.

The rally is being planned in the old style political tradition. The C.L.B. Band will provide music for the occasion.

The figures for this year, up to the end of July, are about one-third less than for the first seven months of 1952. The area included in the survey is St. John's, Bell Island, Grand Falls-Windsor, and Corner Brook. Figures also are being kept this year for Gander.

On the basis of the survey area of last year, as compared with this year, the figures have dropped from just under 300 to just under 180.

Biggest decline in new home construction has been in the area of metropolitan St. John's. Last year at the end of July there had been 240 starts as opposed to this year's figure of 104.

Two little three-year-old girls, one from Freshwater and one from Blaketown, are the latest to succumb to the polio virus in Newfoundland. Three children have died now, since the epidemic began.

A spokesman for the Department of Health said yesterday that seven or eight patients have now been transferred from the Fever Hospital to the Orthopaedic ward where they are receiving special orthopaedic care. One has been discharged and is now home, while two others were never hospitalized at all.

The remainder of the original 34 (not counting those who died) are receiving treatment in the Fever Hospital.

AWARD FOR GASCON
MONTREAL (CP) — Jean Gascon, director of the Theatre du Nouveau Monde, has been awarded the Marc Lescarbo prize for his production of Othello at the Stratford, Ont., Shakespeare Festival. The prize was named after a French actor-director who staged the first play in North America in 1608.

Representatives of the Newfoundland Government Employees Association will meet with Premier Smallwood this afternoon to discuss an association brief requesting pay increases and changes in conditions of employment for provincial civil servants.

Ray Snow, Secretary of the N.G.E.A., said Tuesday that the brief, originally submitted in July, 1952, will be discussed in the light of increases in pay which have been given civil servants in the top ranks. Mr. Snow said the N.G.E.A. wants an across the board increase for all government employees.

There were no increases this year for civil servants in the lower brackets. This is the lower matter which the N.G.E.A. wishes to discuss with the Premier.

Mr. Snow said he hopes to be able to make a statement to an extraordinary meeting of the Association which has been called for Thursday night on the results of the discussions with the Premier. The meeting of the Association was called last Saturday to consider a resolution on the pay increase and another resolution concerning the Association's relations with the Trade Union movement in Newfoundland.

Most of the pressure on accommodation at the Penitentiary in St. John's has been relieved by the opening of a new bunkhouse at the Salmonier Prison Camp.

At present there are 95 prisoners at Salmonier and 125 at the St. John's prison.

Mr. Abbott said the Federation of Fishermen has accomplished much in improving the lot of the fishermen. All the proposals of Mr. Daley, he said, are not new to us. Some of the suggestions he has made already have been implemented and others have been started and will progress as time goes by. Still others, he said, are under active consideration.

Mr. Abbott said: "We have at times investigated and even tried out in some instances, the possibility of cooperation between labour and producers and have found that the activities and desires of both cannot be interwoven. The result is that labour may get the lion's share and the producer what is left."

P.E.I. Election

In the small garden province of Prince Edward Island no great issues dominate the political scene.

The Liberals have been in power for twenty-four years and had an impressive majority in the last election. However, all four federal ridings went to the Conservatives last year and the election will reveal if this reflected a change of political thought on a provincial basis.

Agriculture seems at the moment to be the prime issue and the Conservatives are placing special emphasis on a progressive farm programme.

But no grave problems beset the small island province. Its 100,000 people are crowded into a great farm of 2,000 square miles and while its per capita personal income rate is, next to Newfoundland's, the lowest in Canada, it is supplemented by the fact that many people contribute substantially to their own food requirements.

Like every other province, P.E.I. can do with more money for its public services but it is so highly centralized that it probably gets more value for each dollar of expenditure than any other province because of lower costs.

Its election campaign is likely to reflect these conditions and take a much smaller toll of the energies of the candidate than is the case in this more complicated province of Newfoundland.

Their Freedom Has Limits

No reasonable person will doubt that the common people of all countries want peace and that Russian and Polish crowds gave expression to their true feelings when they cheered Mr. Nixon. The remarkable thing is that they were permitted to voice their friendly feelings towards the United States.

In Poland the enthusiasm was much more pronounced than it was in Russia. But Poland has not been so long under Communist rule that it has forgotten its former independence. In fact, the Russians have had to ride the Poles with a much looser rein than they hold on other satellites.

But freedom in all Communist countries has its limits. The people may wish and cheer for peace. They may like America and give a rousing and sincere welcome to its vice-president. But if the men in the Kremlin were to decide on war, Communist disciplines would quickly change all that.

The greatest hope of peace still lies in the neutralizing influence of nuclear weapons and the willingness of the Communist leaders to play a sincere part in eliminating the major causes of a destructive war. It could be that the visit of Mr. Khrushchev to Washington will mark the first step towards a constructive programme for peace.

Aid For U. S. Steelworkers

We gather that the steel union in Sydney will be called upon to vote tonight on a recommendation for the donation of $1,000 a week to American steelworkers for the duration of the present strike in the United States.

What the Sydney union or any other Canadian international union may do to contribute to the American strike fund is clearly its own business.

But it does seem a little unusual that workers whose average rate of pay when they went out on strike was $3.10 an hour should be looking for such assistance.

We are not quarrelling with the right of workers who average $120 a week to look for more but they should not have any need to call on the aid of workers in another country which cannot afford the same wage rates. They ought, in fact, to have been able to build up a strike fund out of their own resources that would be ample for any emergency.

No Need For Grand Jury

The grand jury has long since ceased to form an important part of the machinery that leads to indictment and trial in the Supreme Court. It is, in fact, a dispensable institution. In New Brunswick it is to be abolished at the end of this month.

There was a time in Newfoundland when the grand jury served a mildly useful purpose by its quarterly reports on the public institutions. But this has ceased to be a function.

Today it is merely an unnecessary step in a legal process since it merely duplicates the work of the committing magistrate and it has very rarely happened that a grand jury has failed to find a true bill against persons who have been committed for trial by a lower court.

In the circumstances, its abolition may well be considered in this province.

Poets Pay Tribute

Two poets have paid their tributes to the Queen on the conclusion of her Canadian tour.

John Masefield, the Poet Laureate, has told how "She has revealed to us the immense page, Vaster than any Nation can call hers, On which the unknown Future, age by age, Will write its dark and light as it occurs..."

Professor E. J. Pratt, the Newfoundland who has become Canada's greatest poet, has avoided the mysticism of Masefield's poem. His is a graceful tribute that seems to give expression to the thoughts of all Her Majesty's loyal subjects in Canada. He has written:

"It is not easy to define what stirs the heart,
But this we know—
Whatever it is that so becomes a Queen,
Whatever it is that so becomes a Prince,
Was there at its full blossoming."

People may often wonder at the indefinable something that tugs at the heartstrings in the presence of the Queen and Professor Pratt has posed the question and answered it to the satisfaction of all.

THE LAST WEEK

About six days of active campaigning remain in this extraordinary election. As a result, many candidates will be able to cover only a very small part of their districts. In fact, thousands of voters will be confronted with ballot papers bearing names of men they have never seen and whose voices they may never have heard on over the radio. This in itself will be an advantage to the Liberals since they are the only candidates known in all but a few districts.

The Conservatives are at a disadvantage as great in most districts as that of the new parties. They have been apparently unable to develop organization to the point where candidates could be chosen years before an election and given an opportunity of making themselves known in the constituencies they wish to represent. Yet that is to be found in the case of Ross Barbour who adopted Bonaville South and built up a following which caused him to be chosen by the Liberals as a candidate with a district already half won.

There are four parties in the field but the probabilities are that there will be no more than two parties in the House of Assembly. The real fight is between the Conservatives and the United Newfoundland Party for the right to form the official opposition. The position may be reduced to a few simple propositions.

The Liberals are seeking and will receive a new mandate but their official campaign is concentrated on the desire to convince the people of Canada that the people of Newfoundland may differ on everything else but are united in their opposition to the Diefenbaker government's policy on Term 29 of the confederation agreement.

The Conservatives express their faith in Mr. Diefenbaker's goodwill. They constitute the only party that accepts with equanimity and even with conviction the promise that has been substituted for what most Newfoundlanders regard with reason as a constitutional right.

The United Newfoundland Party with the fewest candidates has nevertheless a strong expectation of becoming the official opposition. They are former Conservatives who agree with the Liberals on Term 29 but are determined to constitute not merely a stalwart opposition but also the nucleus of a new party organization that will hope by the next election to be able to make a strong case for their acceptance as the next government of the province. They call themselves, and perhaps with reason, the party of the future.

The Newfoundland Democratic Party has put up a lot of candidates. It can hardly have a greater ambition than an attempt to test the support that might be given to a labour party. It may show its greatest strength in the district of St. Barbe where, at least in the southern section, there is to be found perhaps the most aggressive support of the I.W.A. In the last election in this district 2,752 people voted out of a potential electorate of 4,154. The Liberal majority was four to one. Messrs. McCool and Ladd may stage a powerful campaign but they must share the anti-Liberal vote with the Conservatives in a district in which the government won a four-to-one victory in 1958.

The real interest, as we have noted before, must hinge on the popular vote. First there is the question of how big a percentage of the electorate will vote. Generally speaking, it is likely that voting will be light. The exception to this rule will be in those districts, such as St. John's West, where circumstances create a special interest that will bring out the great majority of the voters.

But without a new voters' list, the necessity of swearing in those not on the list will slow the poll and tend to reduce the percentage of voters. The Liberals meanwhile are hoping for unanimous representation, divided between themselves and the United Newfoundland Party, in support of their Term 29 stand. The Conservatives want to survive. The United Newfoundland Party want to present a united front on Term 29 and become the nucleus of an alternative government. And the Democratic Party want to test the political strength of the official policies of the Newfoundland Federation of Labour. None of these groups will have to wait long for an answer.

Letters To The Editor

THE SMALLWOOD CONFUSION

Editor Daily News,

Dear Sir—A study of Smallwood's Manifesto shows it to contain the usual Smallwood confusion. First he states that Newfoundland was a Dominion at that time of the Confederation negotiations, the implication being that the Terms were negotiated by equal partners. How wrong can he be! We lost our Dominion status in 1933 when Mother England answered our cries for help during a world-wide Depression by taking away our independence and leaving us with the status of a Slave Colony. We were never given the opportunity of regaining our status as a self-governing Dominion as that did not suit the plans of the Governments of England and Canada, and the Dictator Government of Newfoundland. They, with the connivance of certain groups in Newfoundland, had decided, long before, that Newfoundland must become a Province by fair means or foul. During the Confederation negotiations Newfoundland was represented by a group of self-appointed nobodies. Canada was represented by elected Federal Ministers with all the authority of the Government of Canada behind them.

Smallwood's Manifesto would lead the unwary to believe that the Terms of Union were negotiated between equals. Nothing could be further from the truth. But then Joey's policy always has been to confuse, and to divide and conquer. He is doing just that during the present unnecessary election, and he will continue to do it until he is removed from the scene permanently. The electors of Newfoundland, would do themselves and Newfoundland an awful lot of good by removing him during this election. His is a One-Man Government with Ministers of the Crown and backbenchers alike being just puppets who dance when Joey pulls the strings. Apparently he writes a speech and hands out carbon copies to all, because their speeches are invariably echoes of his. They must toe the line or else. They know what happened to Ted Russell, Herb Pottle and others when they dared show that they had minds of their own. Deputy Ministers and other high officials must resign their jobs and contest elections as Liberal Party Candidates at "The Boss's" command. If they should be defeated they are reinstated in their jobs.

Joey has had a lot to say about traitors lately. Voters would be well advised to look back over the records of say Bill Browne and Mac Hollett on the one side and Joe Smallwood on the other.

The voters of Newfoundland will be given an opportunity on August 20th. to elect a Government friendly to Ottawa. No good can come of fighting the Federal Government as Smallwood has been doing since the Conservatives came to power. As a matter of fact he fought them before they came to power. He and all his Cabinet Ministers neglected their jobs for some weeks in 1957, and toured their districts in a campaign against the P.C. Party. Joey even campaigned against the P.C.'s in Nova Scotia, but the voters there showed what they thought of Joey on Election Day, and elected Conservatives in just about every riding. Let us do the same in Newfoundland on August 20th. What an opportunity the voters of St. John's West have! They can show the rest of Newfoundland what they think of Joey and his policies. He is only tilting at windmills when he is taking on all of Canada. He talks of carrying his fight across Canada. The average Mainland Canadian could not care less. Repeat. Could not care less. Our best bet is to stop name calling and try to get along with the Federal Government. Seeing that we are now part of Canada we have no choice but to do that. Let us all get together and elect a Conservative Provincial Government to work side by side with a Federal Conservative Government. Avoid the new Political Parties. They will only cause confusion. It is doubtful that either of them will elect even one Candidate, but they can help the Liberals by splitting the vote.

Many people say they are sick and tired of elections and will not vote in this election. That is not the way to do it either. When you do not register a vote for the Party you like best you are helping the Party you like least. If anybody is sick of anything it should be of the Liberal Party.

Ever yours truly,

COMMON SENSE.

CAUSE OF UNREST

Brooks Bulletin

Probably one cause of labor unrest is the very high pay obtained by the heads of corporations. In the United States this is much more evident than in Canada.

The president of Bethlehem Steel Company is getting $511,249 a year. Of course income taxes take the cream of the total and his "take home" pay is only $143,988.

The president of General Motors Corporation gets $373,508 but has to struggle along on only $118,407 net.

Samuel Bronfman, the Canadian who is president of Distillers Corporation-Seagram Ltd., gets $357,933, which is reduced to the pitiful sum of $115,447.

And so on down the list.

In addition to the salaries mentioned these top men are guaranteed substantial pensions for the rest of their lives, after they retire. Wolves will never be at their doors.

Don't Go Too Far Away

Hawaii Votes

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Naturally the Republicans are taking encouragement from their Senate and governorship victories in the new state of Hawaii. After their lean pickings in the 1958 elections, they are ready for good news.

Anyone genuinely interested in the two-party system must welcome signs of renewed spirit and vigor within the GOP. Seldom has it held so few governorships, and its Senate membership is lower than at any time since the New Deal days when Franklin D. Roosevelt swept the boards.

Sober Republican party men will not take the Hawaiian outcome as proof of a trend their way. It takes more than one special election to demonstrate that.

On the other hand, the island balloting will give the Democrats a little food for thought. It doesn't prove they won't do all or most of what they hope to do in 1960. But it may temper their optimism with caution.

There is considerable danger in the argument that what happens in a prior election is a firm forecast of things to come. History is replete with examples overturning this notion.

Many times one party has swept a series of special elections, only to lose the next general election emphatically. One party may score heavily in the off-year congressional balloting, yet lose the presidential voting two years later.

That happened to the Republicans in 1946-48, and to the Democrats in 1954-56.

Hawaii is a fresh reminder that each election has an identity of its own, and not necessarily affected by what has gone before.

In view of the islands' mixed population, there can be no surprise in the victories of a Republican Chinese-American to the U.S. Senate and a Democratic Japanese-American to the U.S. House. Both obviously were popular, well-qualified candidates.

Whatever the political meaning of this election, the big thing is that it signifies Hawaii's coming of age as our 50th state. In the next session of Congress, the islands will have their rightful voice in the nation's affairs.

OUR PULSING GLOBE

"There is a tide in the affairs of men..."

When the Bard penned those lines, he spoke more literally than he could have known. For just as there are tides in the seas caused by the actions of the sun and moon, we are now told that there are daily earth tides, too.

This is no news to scientists, of course, who studied the rippling and shifting of the earth's crust as part of the International Geophysical Year. Some of the information gleaned is fascinating.

For instance, Moscow, a Russian scientist reports, rises up and down by more than a foot and a half, two times a day.

Lest we draw any hasty conclusions from that, let it be noted that the same thing happens in more or less degree all over the globe.

'JOEY' AND CASTRO

Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph

While the circumstances are by no means similar, there is a strong parallel in what Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland is doing, and what Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba has done. Castro resigned his post, and immediately had himself "re-elected" by popular demand. Castro, incidentally, was not unwilling to stimulate the "popular demand".

Now Mr. Smallwood has tendered the resignation of his government, and has asked the Lieutenant Governor to call an election "as soon as the law allows." Like Castro, we suspect that Mr. Smallwood is aiming to ensure his re-election in an emotional outburst.

POLL AROUSES SPECULATION ON RESIDENTIAL HOPEFULS

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The cent Gallup Poll indicating that today, a Stevenson-Kennedy ticket would get 53 per cent of the vote while a Nixon-Rockefeller ticket only 42 per cent, has aroused considerable political speculation here months ago, a poll found years divided on the two tickets.

From one point of view, the polls give some support for the notion of a Stevenson-Kennedy ticket in Los Angeles next July. The facts that ex-Governor Stevenson is not a candidate for the presidential nomination, in 1960, and Senator Kennedy insists he is not in second place.

But in the countdown, political conventions have a way of changing the ticket that they think best chance to win. And if the delegates have a feeling Stevenson-Kennedy can beat Nixon regardless of his running mate, in.

The same assurance cannot be given the suggested Nixon-Rockefeller ticket tried out on a cross-section of the voters by the pollsters if there are strong indications given ticket stands second best ticket is automatically endorsed.

There is, of course, good reason for putting Nixon at the head of a public ticket at this time. He polls this year. Vice President has been way ahead of all other possibilities.

In January, Nixon was leading by a wide margin. He fell two to one. In July, he increased his lead three to one.

In spite of that, there is considerable doubt about what the result would be if a Stevenson-Kennedy ticket were tried out against a Nixon ticket.

"In state elections," say several democratic campaign workers, "the opponent for a Democrat to beat liberal Republican. The Republicans haven't found that out yet. We do, more Democrats will be elected. Governor Rockefeller's defeat, Gov. Averell Harriman in New York last year is cited as evidence."

Further evidence along this line was offered by another Gallup Poll in January. It showed Governor Rockefeller with a 51 per cent preference over ex-Governor Stevenson's 45 per cent being undecided.

Since that time, of course, Governor Rockefeller's program in New York has come under considerable criticism. Stevenson's stock has been on the rise. Stevenson vs. Nixon and even Stevenson vs. Kennedy have been running and neck in the polls all year. For unaccountable reason, Nixon jumped to a commanding lead a year ago after his return from the South. He can tour in which he was the Communist anti-American demonstrations.

Perhaps this was a demonstration of sympathy as well as support for an appeal on which Mr. Nixon has expected. Anyway, after the off, Stevenson popularity rose Nixon's.

Stevenson vs. Kennedy has been the lead all year, not only against other but against the field of Democratic possibilities.

Gradually, however, Stevenson has been pulling into a tight over all other candidate. And the American and Democratic. And some feeling that Senator Kennedy is young enough to wait four years. He would be more experienced in place on the ticket.

New Classroom

SPANIARD'S BAY, Aug. 11—
Holy Redeemer Anglican School here will have an additional classroom when the school year begins on September 1st, thus bringing the total to eleven. There will be twelve teachers.
The enrollment last school year warranted the addition of the extra classroom but because of the lack of funds the work had to be delayed until now. The greatest congestion occurred in the high school grades with 82 pupils (enough for a regional high) in the high school grades alone. Obviously, running a teacher short, the school could not hope to maintain its usual high standard. To make matters worse, the grade nine teacher was obliged to enter hospital during the Christmas holidays, and for the remaining six months substitut teachers were employed. However, grade ten came through very well (85% passes), but the percentage for grade nine was below the school's usual mark.
This year, with the addition of the necessary classroom space, the situation will return to normal, and we hope academic achievements raised to its usual high standards.
But, of course, it does not always follow because more provided that good work folspace and an extra teacher are only do so much. Pupils and their parents must do their share (and not a small share at that) if real progress is to be made.
The school building is to get a new paint job too before school reopens.
Spaniard's Bay Anglican people have been well served by a conscientious group of men who make up the school board. Their work has been and still is purely voluntary;
they are men whose occupations are ordinary, but they have been men of vision. Serving the public, in whatever capacity, is a thankless job.
Their decisions often bring them into conflict with their neighbours and too often they come in for unfair and unjust criticisms from above and below, and often, far too often, the co-operation which they richly deserve is conspicuously lacking. Their problems are frequently overwhelming;
still they carry on.
As parents, we owe the school board all the co-operation we can give; we owe them, too, not a small portion of gratitude.

Highroad Repairs

SPANIARD'S BAY, Aug. 11—
Workmen from the Department of Highways are this week going over the highroad at Spaniard's Bay making the necessary repairs to the pavement. Trucks have also been engaged bringing fill for the shoulder of the road around Lassie Point thus making this section of the road considerably wider.
The secondary roads, which also come under the supervision of the same department, are in very good condition.
The local roads, which come under the supervision of the local road board, are in some sections very rough, however, and need urgent attention. So far no work has been done on these thoroughfares this season.

RCMP Checks Speeding

SPANIARD'S BAY, Aug. 11—
The RCMP have been very busy lately checking on those motorists who exceed the speed limits that are indicated by the roadside signs. They are carefully noting other infringements of good and safe driving regulations.
We sometimes think that the police officers are too alert on some points, while others, equally important, are seemingly not noticed. This argument is, in our opinion, worthless. Police officers do not make the laws which are made for the good of all of us, but it is the duty of the police to see that these laws are obeyed. They have to protect us from others who, knowingly or otherwise, wish to do us harm. We laud them on this score. But we get our feathers ruffled when the police check on us to protect us from ourselves.
Motorists are not the only ones at fault. Pedestrians are very noticeably careless. It is not an uncommon sight to see two, three or even four people walking abreast on the narrow highway, and not infrequently do motorists have to come to a complete stop. Sounding one's horn is often ineffective to indicate one would like to proceed even at snail's pace.
Careless pedestrians can be just as much a menace as careless drivers. We are pleased to know that the police are checking on pedestrians also.

It Ain't Hay

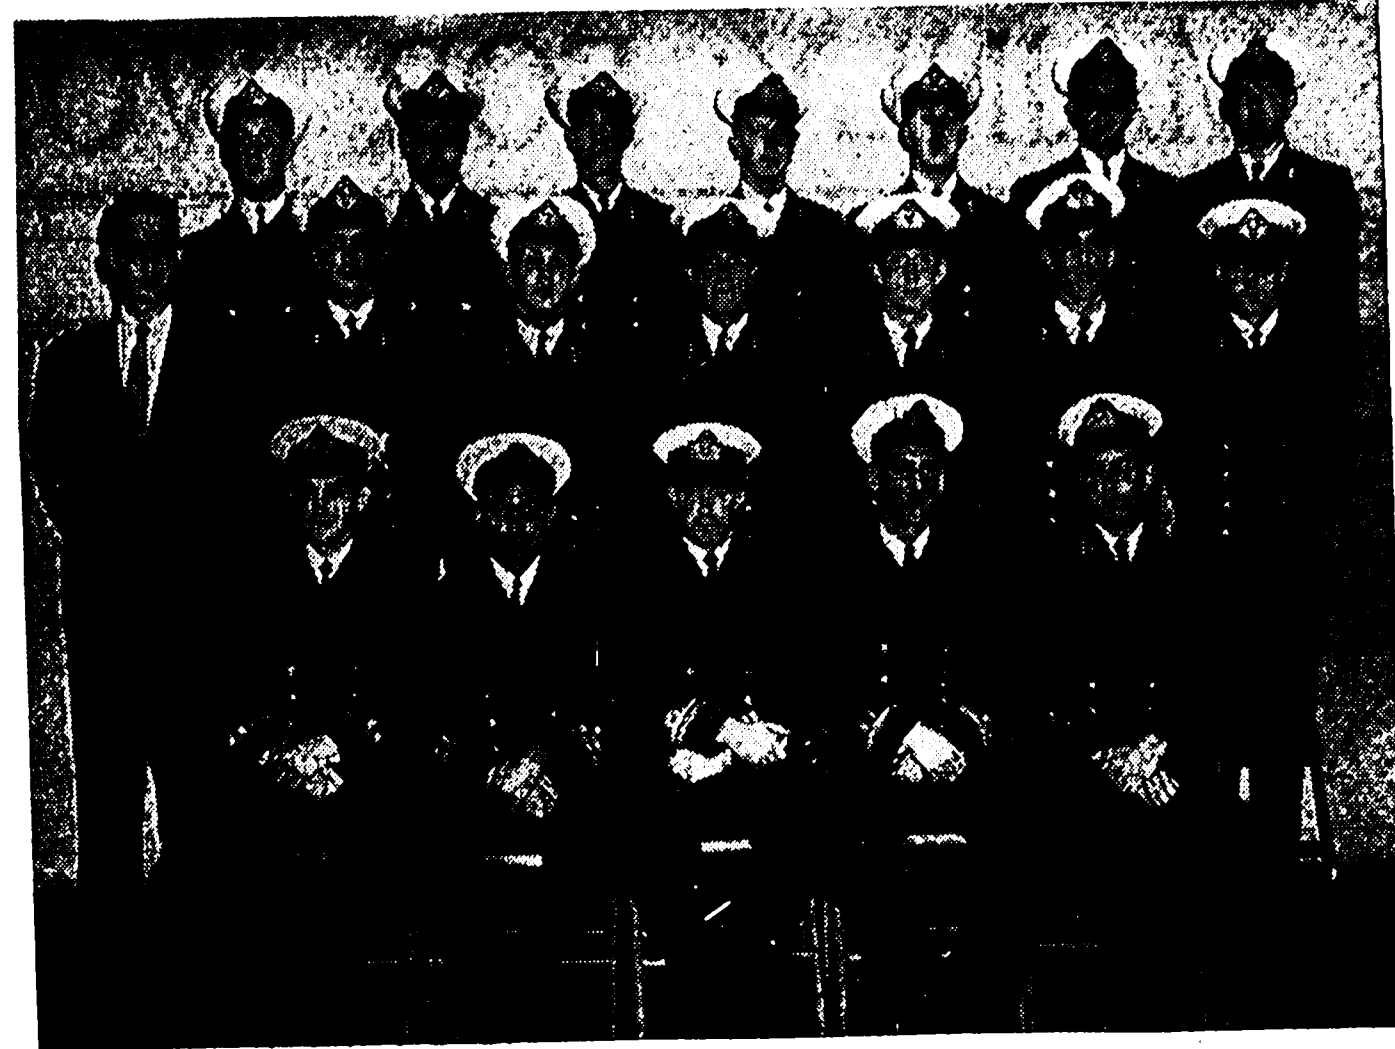

SPANIARD'S BAY, Aug. 11—
The splendid weather of recent weeks has been ideal hay-making weather, but locally there is very little hay made while the sun is shining. We are speaking entirely of hay and we are not implying anything else.
Time was when just about every family "had something in the stable." Only the well to do and the indigent were excepted. Nearly every family kept sheep, a goat or two,
a horse and a cow to help them make a living. But the weekly pay cheque changed all that.
What stables remain on the local scene are very much devoid of animals. With few exceptions the horse is a rarity; only a few keep any sheep; the only goat to be seen locally is a billy which nobody owns and which is kept alive by its ability as a scavenger. The cow, which used to be the mainstay of many families, is almost extinct.
Who needs hay then? Nobody.
Consequently great fields of hay are allowed to rot on the stumps. In most cases fences have been removed from fields altogether, but still the grass grows for the simple reason that there are no animals at large to eat it up.
Haymaking was a necessity.
It was hard work to mow the fields and gardens with scythe and sickle, to rake the ground by hand with a long-handled wooden implement, to gather every lock into a pile or "pook." But new mown hay had a clean and refreshing smell and it took one out into the bright sunshine, thereby benefitting the haymaker physically as well.
If we are better off than those of a generation ago we can truthfully give the cause
"It Ain't Hay".

ROBERT TAYLOR IN
"BILLY THE KID"

"Billy the Kid," vivid Technicolor outdoor adventure drama with a thrill in every reel, and with Robert Taylor in a two-fisted action role opens at the Paramount Theatre.
Brian Donlevy, Ian Hunter,
Mary Howard, Gene Lockhart and Lon Chaney, Jr., play prominent roles in the M-G-M masterpiece reprint, which was filmed on locations in Tucson, Arizona against magnificent scenic backgrounds.
The story deals with a bandit who is hired to help a gang engaged in robbing and oppressing ranchers. Because of his code never to fire on an unarmed man, The Kid (Robert Taylor) befriends an English settler and falls in love with his sister, who is engaged to his boyhood friend.
The desperado ranges himself on the side of the ranchers and takes the law into his own hands amid two-fisted and two-gun adventures and an escape from jail. The climax, in which he gives his life for his friend, is one of the most moving episodes of Western literature.

SPENCER TRACY IN
"THE LAST HURRAH"

Spencer Tracy, twice winner of an Academy Award as best actor, and John Ford, four-time Oscar winner as best director, combine their talents in Columbia Pictures motion version of Edwin O'Connor's best seller, "The Last Hurrah," opening tomorrow at the Capitol Theatre.
In bringing the powerful novel to king-size screen life, Columbia pictures has assembled a notable cast. Co-starred with Tracy are such distinguished names as Jeffrey Hunter, Dianne Foster, Pat O'Brien, Basil Rathbone, Donald Crisp
and James Gleason. In addition, "The Last Hurrah" is peopled with such other brilliant character actors as Edward Brophy, Ricardo Cortez, Jane Darwell, Anna Lee,
John Carradine and Wallace
Ford, to name but a few.
"The Last Hurrah" presents
Tracy as the long-time political boss of a big city, master of a well-oiled and well-heeled political machine and a man who has the respect and adoration of his people. Even though he is opposed by the self-styled "respectable" elements — including leaders in the community's social, financial, publishing and religious fields — Tracy's many large and human services, plus the exuberance and excitement of his political campaigning, make him confident of another victory. He maneuvers for votes in City Hall, at a "wake," at political rallies.
His personal charm swings over to his side the otherwise hostile Miss Foster when he patches up her romance with his sports writer nephew, Jeffrey Hunter.
But "The Last Hurrah" reportedly is more, more, more, than the story of an election. It is an exciting, entertaining and powerful study of a man, and the city he helped to build. It is a study in triumph, in conflict and defeat.

Air Cadets Return

GANDER—A number of Gander Air Cadets returned from

Cadets were accompanied by Flying Officer Carl Carlson and Mr. Eli Baker, Town Manager

Gander Landings In July Up

GANDER—Figures released by the Department of Transport at Gander indicate that 1201 aircraft landed at Gander during the month of July this year. For the same month last year, 1117 aircraft landed here.
Although the increase in landings as compared to last year is not large, the figures serve to dispel the theory that the introduction of jet aircraft on the Atlantic would result in a marked decrease in Gander landings.
The total landings at Gander for July are broken down into 808 scheduled flights, 162 non-scheduled, 109 military and 122 local flights.

the manner in which Newfoundland has been treated under Term 29 by Mr. Diefenbaker and his Tory Government. They have uneasy minds about the treatment of Newfoundland by Diefenbaker in the I.W.A. dispute and the failure to send RCMP reinforcements to Newfoundland.
The Canadian people were shocked at Diefenbaker's refusal to send additions when our backs were to the wall. If Hollett wins, the people of Canada will believe that Newfoundland is satisfied, but if the Progressive Conservatives are wiped out completely the Canadian people will know that we are very dissatisfied and unhappy with the treatment we are receiving.

Continuing his sidewalk speeches, Mr. Smallwood referred to his high regard for Mr. H. H. Lett's character and capabilities with the only difference being his attitude towards Term 29. Mr. Smallwood contended and contemplated that Mr. Diefenbaker had no right to terminate Newfoundland's rights under Term 29 and declared
Mr. Hollett's proposal of the Prime Minister's action. He stressed the contrast served between two separate sovereign countries and the indispensable fact that it could not be altered in any respect by either party. He declared
Mr. Hollett's championship of Mr. Diefenbaker, the man who had torn up the terms of St. John's West had the opportunity to retire him from Newfoundland politics if they so desired.
Mr. Diefenbaker took the side of the I.W.A. when Newfoundland needed more police and the Canadian Government had a contract to supply the required police. In every way, Mr. Diefenbaker has turned thumbs down on Newfoundland's justifiable request for rights. The biggest enemy Newfoundland has today is the Prime Minister of our country.

Beau Time

This deep cloche of Cavalry Green has a gathered brim, and a tall crown accented by binding and bow of gold silk faille.

Colours

Colours are daringly named in Mr. John's collection. Victoire Red, Royal Scarlet, Marie Louise Mauve, Imperial Purple, Libertie Blue, Hussar Blue, Empress Emerald, Regimental Gold, Rivoli Orange, Cameo Cream, Psyche Pearl and Diamond Frost White.

Veils too draw on the era of the Bonaparte Empire. Mr. John has named the Marquise, a wide silk mesh veil of shining opalescence. The Baronesse is a fine silk film sprinkled with tiny crystals or dots of black chenille. The Imperatrice is a fragile wisp of veiling illuminated by tiny diamond stars.

Mr. John feels that "to follow new fashions as well as new horizons is the essence of youth. A travel hat must have a dual personality, packable and... important looking. Both are achieved and live in perfect harmony in this season's collection.

Colours range from a Re-camier Pink to a Chevalier Black... Veils come in such enchanting names as the Princesse and the Baronesse.

New Successes

Intoxicate HIS senses after five. This elegantly Desiree Spillat Silhouette is fashioned of Imperial Purple and White jewel-embroidered brocade, tipped with a cluster of snowy Aigrettes.

Fashion Tips

Yves St. Laurent of the House of Dior has created a fall look expressly for American women. Called the Willow Look, it features silhouettes with shoulders wider and dropped, waists defined with crushed cummerbunds or wide belts and skirts that are slightly longer than last year. His new suit jacket touches the hip bone in front and curves down in the back over skirts both narrow and easy. Dresses are all pared down but with a willowy grace. Gathers ease sheaths and bell skirts are restrained. His colors are brilliant and he introduces two new ones, Bleu de France and French Lilac.

Pauline Trigere, whose collection lifted New York showings out of the doldrums last week showed, among other things, an outstanding reversible double-faced wool. It has a giant circular collar and the coat itself is almost another circle with its curving hem. Slender stem-like dresses are worn underneath the coat and a high cone of fur or fabric on the head above it.

Connoisseur

A new Mr. John Boutique Hat of Cavalry crushed velvet. The tall toque of velvet is by two silk faille bows.

Command Performance

Long Live Romance is the theme of this outrageously romantic Evening Portrait Silhouette. Fashioned of Imperatrice yellow velvet with gold.

Beauty Tips

If your clothes are in bad condition, treat them to a gentle olive oil bath or a laudan cream once or twice a week. Keep fingers free of hangnails, otherwise you may be tempted to bite or pull at them.

When you want a quick facial pickup, splash your face with cold water. This is an inexpensive way to bring out the glow in your cheeks. And cold water can also make tired eyes perk up.

Maturing women often discover a dowager's hump along with a double or triple chin. Before getting up in the morning, toss away your pillow and lie flat. Then lift the head two inches, then down. Don't raise your shoulders while doing this. Repeat five times at first and work up to ten.

Warrior BASIN ...

By LESLIE ERNENWEIN

ANXIOUSLY, the driver of the truck had scarcely started the engine when the supply of hay was cut off. The Rio Pelice had been burned. The hay was the most common of the hogwild—he'll be on the third day a report from town reported a fresh wagon and its cargo had been burned, its driver set afoot and the teams run off.

Jules Pardee raged and roared. Driving a sweat-lathered team into Junction he announced that fighting wages would be paid to any able-bodied man capable of riding a horse and firing a gun. He offered a $100 reward for Jim Furlong, dead or alive. Gone was the orderly routine of the big man's monthly visits—the leisurely conversations with congenial companions. Instead there was a continuing confusion of hurried interviews with the county attorney and the sheriff, irritable demands for action.

And hard on the heels of that frustrating situation came Banker Tate Holcomb who spoke apologetically of fiscal commitments and strained credit conditions.

Pardee roared, loud enough for bystanders in the street to hear. "Aren't 5,000 head of prime steers credit enough?" Holcomb shook his head. "Not until they're rounded up for delivery."

Judge Barstow came into the office and reported. "I've just talked to Eggleston and he agrees that the county should also offer a reward for Furlong's capture."

Ignoring that news, Pardee glared at Holcomb and demanded, "How can I round up cattle and chase outlaws at the same time?"

"That's the point, Jules. You can't."

Pardee slammed a half-smoked cigar into the cuspidor with such violence that the receptacle rang like a bell. "I'll import men! I'll hire them in Tombstone and El Paso—enough men to fight Furlong and gather beef at the same time!"

But Holcomb, who had never been less than gracious with Empire's owner, said firmly, "No Jules. I insist that you do not add to Empire's payroll at this time."

Pardee stared at him in bewilderment. "Insist?" he said in a hushed, incredulous voice.

There was a strained silence, then Judge Barstow suggested, "Why not ask Link to swear in several deputies, Jules? As the largest taxpayer, Empire has a right to the law's protection of property. You could use the deputies to guard your freight wagons, and hunt Furlong, while your crew makes a beef roundup."

"Deputies?" Pardee scoffed, smearing the word with contempt. "What good would they be? About as useful as our sheriff, who's no use at all!"

"That's not a fair thing to say," Holcomb objected. "Sid Link rode right out, soon as news came of the holdup."

"Sure, sure. Link rode right out. But he didn't catch Furlong."

Judge Barstow said slyly. "Neither has your crew. And that reminds me, Jules—there's considerable resentment around town for what happened Sunday night."

"What you talking about?"

"Like Rule being shot to death at Fred Kimble's home on Mexican Flat. According to the report Kimble made, Rule was an invalid, under his care and in bed at the time he was killed."

Brent Pardee came to the office doorway and asked, "Are you coming to Mother's for supper, Dad?"

His father nodded, then turned to Judge Barstow. Casually, as if mentioning a matter of no importance, he said, "Sick or well, Rule was a thief who burned one of my line-camps. He deserved to die."

The Judge shrugged, maintained neutrality, but Holcomb said sharply, "Not in such an utterly merciless fashion—so weak he couldn't de-

Are They Trying To Kill The Queen? The Reply Almost Seems To Be 'Yes'

A TIRED QUEEN: The toll of sleepless night, crowded days.

By TOM A CULLEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

LONDON, (NEA) — "Are they trying to kill off the Queen?" I wrote six weeks ago at the start of Queen Elizabeth's 15,000 mile tour of Canada.

I was referring to the crowded programme that Her Majesty was supposed to carry out at break-neck speed.

The Queen's Canadian itinerary read more like the work of a would-be regicide than of loyal Commonwealth ministers solicitous of their sovereign's health and happiness, I wrote.

To-day, it appears my concern was well founded. Not only is Her Majesty ill, but she is returning to England with Prince Philip earlier than anticipated.

Indisposed with an upset stomach, she was forced to stop two days off her Yukon tour. Now the Queen and Prince Philip are shortening their tour ever further by flying home, instead of returning in the royal yacht Britannia.

Anxiety to see their children is the official reason given for the sudden curtailment of the royal tour. This excuse fools no one here.

One only has to talk to those who have accompanied the Queen, or to look at the photos of her taken during the tour to get some idea of the terrible strain she has been under.

The photos show her face lined with fatigue, the result of 10 hours a day fulfilling official engagements.

Those little puffs underneath the eyes are the result of sleepless nights in trains, planes and aboard the royal yacht.

Some idea of the Queen's ordeal may be gained from the toll of sickness among members of the official party. Several of her entourage, worn out by thousands of miles of travel and irregular meals, now have minor illnesses. The same is true of the press corps that has accompanied the Queen.

After her recent stomach upset, the Queen appeared in public more heavily made-up than usual, an obvious effort to hide the paleness of her complexion.

The state of Elizabeth's

On her next visit she could confine herself to Quebec and Montreal without setting a foot in western Canada.

"Not only would this be more natural and less tiring," says the Manchester Guardian, "the Queen would be going about Canada as she goes about her native land."

fend himself. The man had already been shot. That should have been sufficient punishment. Killing him was a despicable thing and it has turned public opinion solidly against Empire."

"Public opinion?" Pardee hooted, the ringing arrogance in his voice matched by a contemptuous downward sweep of his hand. "You, Holcomb, are as finicky as the Judge who's calling this a general revolt of the underdogs. It is nothing of the kind. It's one scoundrel nester sided by two or three greasy-sack renegades."

But presently, limping along the dark street with his son, Pardee asked, "Do you think public opinion is the reason my offer of top wages went begging?"

"Well, it might be," Brent said, unsure of himself in the presence of his father.

"The killing of one cow-thief shouldn't cause that much resentment. The kind of men I was trying to hire don't savvy public opinion. It's not that. But I can't figure out a reasonable explanation."

When they were seated at the supper table, Pardee said to his wife, "I offered top wages today, but only three men would ride for Empire. Can you tell me why, Edith?"

"Clee Veto," she said quietly.

Pardee stared at her across the candle-lit table. "That's a silly answer," he chided. "Clee wasn't in town today."

"But his reputation was," Edith Pardee said, an habitual graciousness in the way she spoke.

health is causing lively concern among her subjects here. The Daily Express describes her as carrying out "one of the toughest jobs faced by any woman to-day," while the Manchester Guardian calls for re-thinking in the planning of royal tours.

The Daily Telegraph publishes letters protesting against the Queen's "impossibly overloaded" schedule. One reader warns, "We shall earn the contempt of such warm-hearted and loyal peoples as the Dutch and the Danes, who know how to allow human rights to their sovereigns."

At home there apparently will be no let-up in the official engagements for the Queen and Prince Philip. They are leaving for a tour of the Orkney and Shetland Islands early in August. After a short rest comes a State visit to the newest Commonwealth member, Ghana.

One suggestion to lighten the Queen's burden is that she make her visits to Commonwealth countries shorter, and combine duty with pleasure.

For example, on one visit to Canada she might take a real vacation in the Rockies and visit a few towns in Alberta and British Columbia.

Scores Success In J.B.

By WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK (AP)—Montreal's Christopher Plummer, one of Broadway's brightest young stars, is giving the movies a tough time.

"I've avoided the Hollywood of fers because I want a wide range of stage work," declares Plummer, who came here from a long string of successes in Canadian drama and with the CBC.

"I would use the films eventually for only one thing — their name value—in order to enable further stage work."

Such candor is rare in actors. Plummer talks, however, with the confidence of a man sure of himself and his purpose.

The 32-year-old Canadian is providing one of the theatre year's most-praised portrayals in the prize-winning drama J.B. His precise voice and satiric manner create a personification of Satan in the poetic fantasy of human tribulation and redemption that poses a paradox.

"At first glance it is a role hard for the audience to accept," says Plummer. "But the audience identifies with it — or at least understands it best. That's how it has turned out."

A 'BEAT' JOB

He originally was considered for the title role—a family man reliving in modern terms the biblical story of Job. Author Archibald MacLeish favored such casting. But director Elia Kazan wanted him for Old Nick.

"I haven't played an average, sympathetic man yet in this town," says the actor.

"But then I reread it and found the devil was actually the best role. MacLeish had given him a nobility and a sense of humor."

"I decided that he should be played as a cool beatnik, who would appreciate jazz but wouldn't snap his fingers with the music."

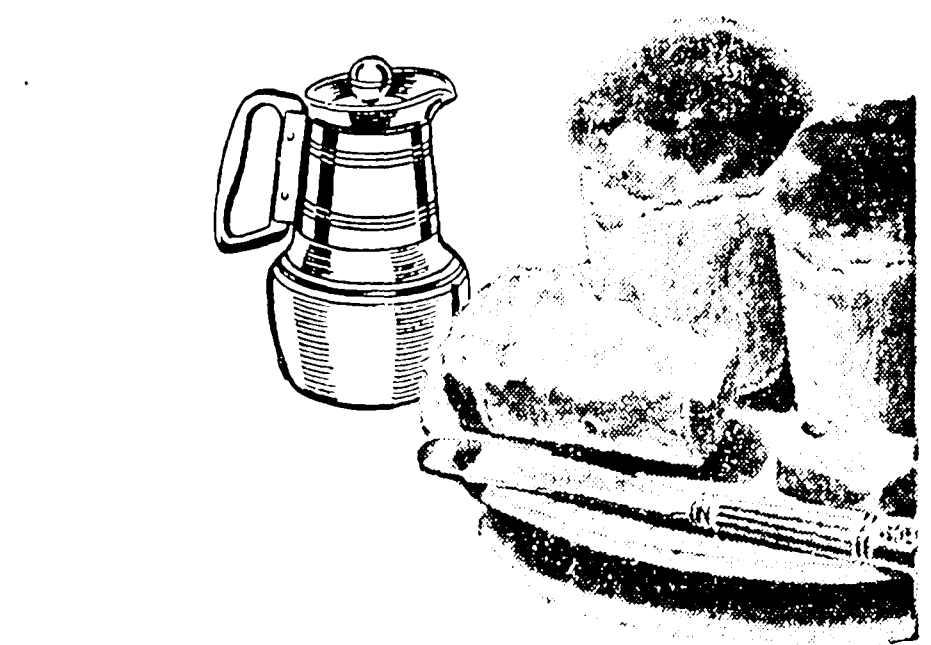

"Most of all I wanted a chance to work out with Kazan."

He and the noted director met about a year ago. Plummer feels that from the start both sensed a conflict of spirit.

"We always had a little chip on the shoulder about each other," says the actor. "When we finally got to work, we were both using each other like mad."

Kazan is one of the founders of the Actor's Studio and a great believer in ultra-realistic performance. Plummer trained in the classic tradition typified by the British stage.

MR. DIEFENBAKER

HOUSE OF COMMONS

March 25, 1959

Right Hon. J. G. Diefenbaker (Prime Minister): My colleagues and I are accordingly of the opinion that parliament should be invited to take action on the commission's recommendations. It is proposed, therefore, to ask parliament to authorize payments as recommended by the royal commission, but in our view the duration of the payments should be limited to five years, as both Newfoundland and Canada have recognized the difficulties involved in making projections from one selected year into the future, and it has further appeared to be quite inappropriate to endeavour to provide for a fixed amount payable annually over a period of unlimited duration. A resolution will shortly be placed on the order paper asking leave to introduce a bill to carry into effect these provisions pertaining to the terms of union. The proposed payments will be unconditional and will be in FINAL and IRREVOCABLE settlement of the provisions of article 29 and the contractual obligations of the union consummated in 1949.

On conclusion of the payments as of March 31, 1962, which corresponds with the conclusion of the present five-year fiscal arrangement between Canada and the provinces, Newfoundland's position can be considered

In the light of the general methods of providing financial assistance to the provinces which may be in effect at that time.

Hon. J. W. Pickersgill (Bonavista-Twillingate): Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the Prime Minister whether I understood him correctly to say that the legislation which he announced the government intends to bring down to implement the recommendations of the McNair commission contemplate the complete discharge of the obligation under section 29 of the terms of union by that legislation, which will expire on March 31, 1962?

Right Hon. J. G. Diefenbaker (Prime Minister): That is so, Mr. Speaker; and any consideration at that time will, of course, be in the context of the larger situation of the nation as a whole.

Mr. Pickersgill: Does the Prime Minister realize that every person in Newfoundland will regard this as another breach of a solemn contract?

Mr. Diefenbaker: Mr. Speaker, I really do not think that the Hon. Gentleman, while he claims paternity for most good things that have been achieved on behalf of Newfoundland, speaks for all the people.

Mr. Pickersgill: You will see.

MR. FLEMING

HOUSE OF COMMONS,

July 13, 1959

Hon. Donald M. Fleming (Minister of Finance) moved that the house do hereby commit to consider the following resolution:

That it is expedient to introduce a measure to provide for the payment of additional grants to the province of Newfoundland.

He said:

In conclusion may I point out that all financial relations between the dominion and the ten provinces of this country must be reviewed as at April 1, 1962.

Mr. Pickersgill: Mr. Chairman, would the minister permit a question at this point. He said "must be reviewed". Could the minister give the statutory authority for that?

Mr. Fleming: I am not referring to statutory authority, Mr. Chairman. If my Hon. friend will allow me to proceed I think he will see quite clearly what I mean. I point out that every province is concerned in what happens as from April 1, 1962, in regard to the financial relations between the dominion and the provinces. It is with this fact in mind that we negotiated the comprehensive study which was approved and inaugurated last week. It is quite clear that Newfoundland's fiscal relations with the dominion are explicitly included in the scope of this comprehensive study. That is the setting in which this review will occur, as the Prime Minister said in this House in his statement of March 25th.

MR. PEARSON

HOUSE OF COMMONS,

July 13, 1959

Hon. Lester B. Pearson (Leader of the Opposition): What happens now to Term 29 of the act of union, a part of the act of union which was so important, and remained so important that if it had not been agreed on ten years ago there would not have been any act of union with Newfoundland?

What happens to the pledged word of the government of Canada under Term 29 to take certain action? What happens to Term 29 now? The minister has repeated his assurance to review the matter before 1962 as part of a general review of dominion-provincial financial relations where no such commitment as this is involved. The minister says: We will drop this solemn obligation, this solemn promise, into our seminar, into our study group, a group which is, itself, an evasion of a promise.

Mr. Fleming: Does the Leader of the Opposition contend that the recommendations of the royal commission are binding on the federal government?

Mr. Pearson: Of course not. I said yesterday that no recommendation of a royal commission is legally binding on any government. But there is something which is more important than legality, and that is the moral and constitutional responsibility of this government to take no action which would interfere with the implementation of Term 29 as long as that term is part of the act of union unless the changes made to Term 29 are made by agreement between the two parties to the contract.

MR. PEARSON

HOUSE OF COMMONS,

July 14, 1959

Hon. Lester B. Pearson (Leader of the Opposition): That article (Term 29) just as much as the others, constituted a specific and solemn undertaking given by the Canadian government and accepted as satisfactory by the government of Newfoundland as the result of which two sovereign nations—I admit that one of them at that time had its sovereignty temporarily in a commission—with in the commonwealth of nations signed a pact, a treaty, if you like, which provided for their union. Indeed, in that sense because of the circumstances that surrounded the negotiations at that time ten years ago, the negotiations, and this pact if you want to call it that, differed from the negotiations, agreements and arrangements which covered the colonies coming into a confederation through an act of the British parliament in the nineteenth century.

That is the way Term 29 as part of the pact of union is regarded by the people of Newfoundland, and, I think, it is the way it should be regarded by all Canadians.

MR. PEARSON

HOUSE OF COMMONS,

July 14, 1959

Hon. Lester B. Pearson (Leader of the Opposition): Finally, Mr. Speaker, when the responsibility is ours again we shall remove this injustice. We shall correct this violation of a contract and we shall make sure once again that the act of union is honoured in all its parts and is carried out as it must be carried out in letter and in spirit. When the people of Newfoundland joined their destiny and linked their history and added their glorious and honoured traditions to ours, they did not dream that ten years later the government of the other party to the contract would impose on them a decision, a settlement, without consultation with them; one, moreover, which does not carry out the recommendations of the royal commission set up under Term 29 of the act of union, and one which does not ensure that the obligations of that term will be carried out in the future through consultation and agreement between the two parties to the contract.

MR. PICKERSGILL

HOUSE OF COMMONS,

July 14, 1959

Hon. J. W. Pickersgill (Bonavista-Twillingate): Now here the people of Newfoundland are being told we are going to extinguish by the act of the right you have under the constitution, the rights you have under Term 29. They go out the window. You have no rights.

No longer, after 1962, can you point to the charter, point to the British North America Act and say, "We are assured, as long as it is needed, that we will have enough money to provide the services"—not the services that they have here in Ontario or Saskatchewan — "at the level they are in Newfoundland in 1957." That is what it is, and that is what is being taken away from the people of Newfoundland: this right that was written into the constitution is being taken away from them if this legislation is enacted.

Mr. Fleming: May I ask the Hon. Member a question? Will he point to any words in this bill that are going to take anything away from Newfoundland?

Mr. Pickersgill: Yes, certainly.

Mr. Fleming: The words that take it away are these: "Whereas pursuant to the recommendations made by the royal commission established in fulfillment of the obligation..."

There is no fulfillment of the obligation here, there is a breach of the obligation. That is what there is, and the Hon. Gentleman is a very uneasy conscience about it. What has happened here is that the government is trying to take away the rights under the constitution and substitute in their place the words of a preamble which the Hon. Gentleman expects when they do not respect the constitution that they disregard the constitution, to have anyone pay the slightest attention to a few words printed in the preamble of a bill which is itself a repudiation of an obligation?

What does all this mean?

The sad truth is that it means this: Newfoundland's special rights come to an end ("final and irrevocable") in 1962. After that, no special rights for Newfoundland. After that, Newfoundland just takes her place with the other nine provinces of Canada.

In place of Term 29, a general review of all the Provinces of Canada. Not a review of Newfoundland's special needs, but a general review of all the ten provinces.

Where Newfoundland (in Term 29) was to be given special attention and special treatment, she now must take her chances with any general financial settlement; or, as the Prime Minister himself said, "in the context of the larger situation of the nation as a whole."

Where Newfoundland's needs were guaranteed under Term 29, now we have nothing but Mr. Diefenbaker's word. In place of the Constitution we have the vague, hazy and almost meaningless words found in the mere preamble to a BILL.

BELL ISLAND NEWS

Simon Dillon Wedding

Starts New Business

BELL ISLAND — Bill Mercer has started a small new industry in Butler's Marsh, Bell Island. The 28-year-old Bell Islander who found himself broke and unemployed started making Plaster of Paris molds, and now he is manufacturing wall plaques and statues to rival in colour and quality anything imported from the U.S.A.

Mr. Mercer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mercer of No. 4 already has sold dozens of the locally manufactured products to one of the island's largest stores and is contemplating a sales campaign to sell more to other Bell Island stores. He may break into the city with some of the goods, too.

Plaques, range from "God Bless our Home", to "Good Luck" with horse's heads and horse shoes etc.

He makes religious and other figurines and statues and sells them at the most inexpensive rates around anywhere in Canada.

Mr. Mercer is helped by Johnny Pottle, Jr. He began the industry after coming home from Tilt Cove where he became allergic to some as yet unknown object. Giant hives broke out on him, so bad were they on the occasion he could not close his eyes.

They were the same kind of hives which attacked him when he was on the Canadian mainland some years ago.

At that time he was forced to come back home, too. Doctors have told him never to leave Bell Island, as it apparently is the place suitable for him.

Broke and unemployed when he came back from Tilt Cove, Mr. Mercer decided to start his little "new" industry and it is our hope he makes it a success.

St. Bon's Drop Guards Feild Wallop Crusaders

Ronnie Butler registered his fourth victory last night as St. Bon's swamped last place Guards 11-1 in Junior baseball action at the City Ball Park.

The big walks told the tale for the Guards as seven of the St. Bon's players to score were those who drew walks from Guards hurler George Parsons. Guards only run came in the second inning when Geoff Campbell laced a high fly to left field that got past Bob Jackman allowing Campbell to move to second on the error. Another error, this time by third baseman Stan Cook, permitted Campbell to scurry home from second.

Bluegolds registered twice in first, third and sixth innings and tossed in five in the second to ramp home the winners.

Butler went the full six innings for St. Bon's giving up one run on two hits, walked two and struckout 11.

Parsons, like Butler, went the full distance getting charged with the loss. He had 11 runs scored on him on five hits. He walked 10 and fanned seven.

St. Pat's Swamp Mac-Curtis 5-0

St. Pat's assured themselves of first place in Junior Football last night as they swamped the Mac-Curtis squad 5-0 at the Ayre Athletic Grounds. The win gives the Irish ten points with only one game remaining in the regular schedule of the Junior League.

Guards have yet to play St. Bon's. Guards are second on seven points while St. Bon's, Mac-Curtis and Holy Cross all have six points. Only the top four teams will advance to the League playoffs. Feildians with five points and CLB without a point are both out of the running.

St. Pat's had Bernie Bennett and Angus Barrett both hitting the scoring column twice last night with Pat Marshall accounting for the other goal on a penalty shot. The Irish were out front 2-0 after the opening frame and came up with three markers in the second half. Dave White between the posts for Mac-Curtis was peppered with shots as he was greeted with 18 drives over the route. Bill Connolly in the Irish nets made no mistakes on the 11 shots sent his way to record the shutout.

In the first half Bernie Bennett banged in the first Irish marker at 14.56 and Angus Barrett got number two at 21.17 to have the frame end 2-0.

Pat Marshall opened the St. Pat's scoring in the final frame as he banged a penalty shot behind Dave White at 9.37. Bennett was back with his second marker of the contest at 14.15 for a 1-0 St. Pat's advantage and Angus Barrett with his second goal of the night at 23.56 had the fixture end 5-0 for St. Pat's.

Both Bennett and Barrett played fine games besides hitting the scoring column twice to split first star. Jack Stewart with a fine performance for the losing Mac-Curtis squad was second star, while Joe Browne played well for the Irish for third star.

DAVE HALL

The Feildians last night as they swamped the Mac-Curtis squad 5-0 at the Ayre Athletic Grounds. The win gives the Irish ten points with only one game remaining in the regular schedule of the Junior League.

Guards have yet to play St. Bon's. Guards are second on seven points while St. Bon's, Mac-Curtis and Holy Cross all have six points. Only the top four teams will advance to the League playoffs. Feildians with five points and CLB without a point are both out of the running.

St. Pat's had Bernie Bennett and Angus Barrett both hitting the scoring column twice last night with Pat Marshall accounting for the other goal on a penalty shot. The Irish were out front 2-0 after the opening frame and came up with three markers in the second half. Dave White between the posts for Mac-Curtis was peppered with shots as he was greeted with 18 drives over the route. Bill Connolly in the Irish nets made no mistakes on the 11 shots sent his way to record the shutout.

In the first half Bernie Bennett banged in the first Irish marker at 14.56 and Angus Barrett got number two at 21.17 to have the frame end 2-0.

Pat Marshall opened the St. Pat's scoring in the final frame as he banged a penalty shot behind Dave White at 9.37. Bennett was back with his second marker of the contest at 14.15 for a 1-0 St. Pat's advantage and Angus Barrett with his second goal of the night at 23.56 had the fixture end 5-0 for St. Pat's.

Both Bennett and Barrett played fine games besides hitting the scoring column twice to split first star. Jack Stewart with a fine performance for the losing Mac-Curtis squad was second star, while Joe Browne played well for the Irish for third star.

My Dear Friends:

I have continually appealed for a common sense approach to our problems. Newfoundland cannot stand alone. There is no need for us to do so.

Please do not let the excitement of a rushed election make you forget that the money and resources of the great Nation of Canada are behind us. Let's work for harmony and good will. It will be to Newfoundland's best interests.
